(6) A police officer may also authorise delay where he has reasonable grounds for believing that -

(4) If a person makes a request for an attorney-at-law, he shall be permitted to consult an attorney-at-law as soon as is practicable except to the extent that delay is permitted by this section.

(5) In any case he shall be permitted to consult an attorney-at-law within twenty-four hours from the time of his arrest.

(8) Subject to subsection (9) a police officer may only authorise delay where he has reasonable grounds for believing that the exercise of the right conferred by subsection (1) at the time when the person detained desires to exercise it -

- (a) will lead to interference with or harm to evidence connected with an indictable offence or interference with or physical injury to other persons;
- (b) will lead to the alerting of other persons suspected of having committed that offence but not yet arrested for it; or
- (c) will hinder the recovery of any property obtained as a result of that offence.

(9) A police officer may also authorise delay where he has reasonable grounds for believing that -

- (a) the person detained for the indictable offence has benefited from his criminal conduct; and
- (b) the recovery of the value of the property constituting the benefit will be hindered by the exercise of the right conferred by subsection (1).

Law 10 of 2008

(11) If delay is authorised -

Detention of persons arrested without warrant

65. (1) When a person has been taken into custody without a warrant for an offence, a police officer of the rank of Sergeant or above to which that person is brought shall at once enquire into the case, and if, when the enquiry is completed, there is no sufficient reason to believe that the person has committed an offence that person shall be released forthwith.

(2) If, upon the enquiry, there is reason to believe that the person arrested has committed an offence that police officer of the rank of Sergeant or above may release the person on bail.

(3) Where the police officer arresting a person determines that he does not have sufficient evidence to charge but has reasonable grounds for believing that the detention of that person without being charged is necessary -

- (a) to secure or preserve evidence relating to an offence for which he is under arrest;
- (b) to obtain that evidence by questioning him; or
- (c) to complete the investigation,

he may place that person in police detention for a period not exceeding seventy-two hours from the time of arrest.

(4) Where a police officer of the rank of Chief Inspector or above has reasonable grounds for believing that -

- (a) the detention of that person without charge is necessary to secure or preserve evidence relating to an offence for which he is under arrest or to obtain such evidence by questioning him;
- (b) an offence for which he is under arrest is an arrestable offence; and
- (c) the investigation is being conducted diligently and expeditiously, he may authorise the keeping of that person in police detention for a further period of twenty-four hours after the period referred to in subsection (3).

(5) A person may not be kept in police detention after the period referred to in subsection (4) except upon the order of a summary court made on the application of a police officer.

(6) The application made under subsection (5) shall be heard in chambers, and the court shall consider whether there are reasonable grounds for believing the matters set out in subsection (4) and, if it is so satisfied, it may order further detention for a further period of seventy-two hours.

(7) Notwithstanding an application made under subsection (5) and an order granted under subsection (6), where there are exceptional circumstances, a police officer may make a further application to the court for an order of detention for a further period of twenty-four hours.

(8) If, at the end of the periods of seventy-two hours and twenty-four hours referred to in subsections (6) and (7), the person is not charged, he shall be released without further reference to the court, but may be re-arrested for the offence for which he was previously arrested if new information justifying a further arrest has come to light since his release.

(9) Wherever in subsections (3), (4), (6), (7) or (8) reference is made to a period of seventy-two or twenty-four hours, such reference shall be read and construed as allowing detention for a lesser period at a time so long as the total period of detention under one authority does not exceed seventy-two or twenty-four hours as the case may be.

(2007 Revision)

(10) Subject to subsection (11), a release on bail of a person under this section is a release on bail granted in accordance with the Bail Law (2007 Revision).

(11) Nothing in the Bail Law (2007 Revision) prevents the re-arrest without warrant of a person released on bail subject to a duty to attend at a police station if new evidence justifying a further arrest has come to light since his release.

(12) Subject to subsection (13), in this section references to “bail” are references to bail subject to a duty -

- (a) to appear before the court at such time or place; or
- (b) to attend at such police station at such time, as the police officer granting bail appoints.

(13) If a police officer has granted bail to a person subject to a duty to appear at a police station, that police officer may give written notice to the person that his attendance at the police station is no longer required.

(14) If a person arrested for an offence was released on bail subject to a duty to attend at a police station and so attends, he may be detained without charge in connection with that offence only if the police officer who granted bail has reasonable grounds for believing that the person’s detention is necessary -

- (a) to secure or preserve evidence relating to the offence; or
- (b) to obtain such evidence by questioning him.

(15) The time from which the period of detention of a person is to be calculated shall be -

- (a) in the case of a person arrested outside of the Islands, the time at which that person arrives at the first police station to which he is taken within the Islands;
- (b) in the case of a person who attends voluntarily at a police station and is arrested at the police station, the time of his arrest;
- (c) in the case of a person who accompanies a police officer to a police station without having been arrested and is arrested at the police station, the time of his arrest; or

(4) If there is reason to believe that such person comes within the provisions of section 60, a police officer shall re-arrest him.

(5) If there is reason to believe that such person has committed an arrestable offence, and he refuses on the demand of a police officer to give his name and address, or he gives a name or address which the police officer has reason to believe to be false, he shall be dealt with under section 30, but if there is no reason to believe that he has committed an offence he shall at once be released.

67. (1) Where a person is, at any place other than a police station -

Arrest elsewhere than at a police station

the person shall be taken by a police officer to a police station as soon as practicable after the arrest.

(2) Nothing in this section prevents a police officer delaying taking a person to a police station if the presence of the person at a place, other than a police station, is necessary in order to carry out such investigations as it is reasonable to carry out immediately.

(3) Where there is any delay the reasons for the delay shall be recorded when the person first arrives at the police station.

(4) Nothing in subsection (1) shall be taken to affect -

- (a) any provision of the Immigration Law (2009 Revision); or

141. (1) A special constable may resign his appointment at any time by giving one month's notice in writing to the Commissioner, but the Commissioner may waive the provisions of this subsection regarding the period of notice to be given.

(2) The Commissioner, subject to such consultation as may be necessary under section 129 in relation to the appointment of the special constable concerned, may terminate the appointment of a special constable whose services are no longer required, and shall forthwith give notice of the termination in writing to the special constable concerned.

(3) A special constable shall, within one week of his resignation or of the receipt of the notice terminating his appointment under subsection (2), deliver up at the time and place and to the person stated in the notice of termination, or to one of his senior officers, his identity card and all arms, equipment, clothing and appointments whatsoever which have been supplied to him under this Law and which are the property of the Government.

(4) An ex-special constable who, having ceased to belong to the Special Constabulary, fails without good cause to comply with subsection (3) commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of one thousand dollars or to imprisonment for six months, or to both.

PART X - MISCELLANEOUS

142. (1) On the application of any person, the Commissioner may, if he thinks fit, detail a police officer to perform special police services in, upon or about any place, premises, business or vessel specified by the applicant.

Special duty and fees chargeable

(3) All fees received by the Commissioner under this section shall be paid by him into the Welfare Fund forthwith, and every sum of money due for such services shall be considered a debt due to the Crown and be recoverable by the Commissioner by summons returnable in the summary court.

143. If the property of a police officer or special constable is damaged during the performance of any duty or training by him under this Law, that property being damaged without his default and on account of circumstances specifically attributable to the nature of his duties as such, that police officer shall be compensated out of public funds upon a scale assessed by the Commissioner.

Compensation for damage

144. (1) A person shall apply for a police clearance certificate in the prescribed form.

Police clearance certificate

(2) An application for a police clearance certificate shall be accompanied by -

- (b) fingerprints; and

(c) the prescribed application fee,
and any other relevant information which may be requested.

(3) Where a person makes a false declaration on an application for a police clearance certificate, that person commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of three thousand dollars or to imprisonment for one year, or to both.

(4) Upon a satisfactory application being made, the relevant police clearance certificate shall be issued in the prescribed form.

(5) Where fingerprints have been taken pursuant to an application under this section, such fingerprints shall be destroyed or handed over to the applicant at his option.

Police Legal Protection
Fund

145. (1) There is hereby established a Police Legal Protection Fund, the funds of which shall be applied for the purpose of providing assistance towards the payment of legal fees or associated costs in relation to the defence of a legal action brought against a police officer for any prescribed act committed while the police officer was on duty.

(2) Subject to any regulations, the Police Legal Protection Fund shall be administered by the Police Welfare Committee.

(3) The Police Welfare Committee may accept voluntary contributions to the Police Legal Protection Fund, either from police officers or members of the public.

(4) The Police Legal Protection Fund shall be subject to an annual audit.

Regulations

146. The Governor in Cabinet may make regulations for the good order and government of the Service and for carrying into effect any of the purposes or provisions of this Law including the following -

- (a) the numerical establishment of the Service, the conditions of service and the various grades, ranks and appointments therein;
- (b) the duties to be performed by police officers and for their guidance in the discharge of such duties;
- (c) pay, retirement benefits and allowances;
- (d) the description and issue of arms, accoutrements, uniforms and necessaries to be supplied;
- (e) the control, administration and application of the Welfare Fund;

- (f) the control, administration and application of the Police Legal Protection Fund;
- (g) discipline and disciplinary procedure;
- (h) police identification including measurements, fingerprints, palm prints, photographs and the records thereof;

- (p) the care and sale of police property;
- (q) the role of the police in assisting the fire service;
- (r) the control of processions, riots and disorders;
- (s) the general control of the Special Constabulary;
- (t) prescribing the fees chargeable for administrative services provided to the public; and
- (u) anything required by this Law to be prescribed.

147. (1) A police officer shall, prior to the interview of a person -

Right to silence

- (a) whom he suspects to have committed an offence; or
- (b) whom he has charged with the commission of an offence, inform that person that he has the right to remain silent and that, if he exercises his right to remain silent, inferences may be drawn from his silence.

(2) The police officer shall, as soon as is practicable, record in the custody record of a person interviewed that he has been informed of his right to remain silent.

148. (1) Where, in any proceedings against a person for an offence, evidence is given that the accused -

Effect of accused's failure to mention facts when questioned or charged

- (a) at any time before he was charged with the offence, on being questioned by a police officer trying to discover whether or by whom the offence had been committed, failed to mention any fact relied on in his defence in those proceedings; or
- (b) on being charged with the offence or officially informed that he might be prosecuted for it, failed to mention any such fact; or
- (c) at any time after being charged with the offence, on being questioned under the Terrorism Law (2009 Revision), failed to mention any such fact, being a fact which in the circumstances existing at the time the accused could reasonably have been expected to mention when so questioned, charged or informed, as the case may be, subsection (2) shall apply.

(2009 Revision)

(2) A -

- (a) court in determining whether there is a case to answer; or
- (b) court or jury, in determining whether the accused is guilty of the offence charged,

may draw such inferences from the failure as appear proper.

(3) Where the accused was at an authorised place of detention at the time of the failure or refusal, subsections (1) and (2) above do not apply if he had not been allowed an opportunity to consult an attorney-at-law prior to being questioned, charged or informed as mentioned in subsection (1).

(4) Subject to any directions by the court, evidence tending to establish the failure may be given before or after evidence tending to establish the fact which the accused is alleged to have failed to mention.

(5) This section applies in relation to questioning by persons, other than police officers, charged with the duty of investigating offences or charging offenders as it applies in relation to questioning by police officers; and in subsection (1) above "officially informed" means informed by a police officer or any such person.

(6) This section does not -

- (a) prejudice the admissibility in evidence of the silence or other reaction of the accused in the face of anything said in his presence relating to the conduct in respect of which he is charged, in so far as evidence thereof would be admissible apart from this section; or
- (b) preclude the drawing of any inference from any such silence or other reaction of the accused which could properly be drawn apart from this section.

(7) This section does not apply in relation to a failure to mention a fact if the failure occurred before the commencement of this section.

149. (1) At the trial of any person for an offence subsections (2) and (3) apply unless -

Effect of accused's silence at trial

- (a) the accused's guilt is not in issue; or
- (b) it appears to the court that the physical or mental condition of the accused makes it undesirable for him to give evidence;

but subsection (2) does not apply if, at the conclusion of the evidence for the prosecution, his attorney-at-law informs the court that the accused will give evidence or, where he is unrepresented, the court ascertains from him that he will give evidence.

(2) Where this subsection applies, the court shall, at the conclusion of the evidence for the prosecution, satisfy itself (in the case of proceedings on indictment with a jury, in the presence of the jury) that the accused is aware that the stage has been reached at which evidence can be given for the defence and that he can, if he wishes, give evidence and that, if he chooses not to give evidence, or having been sworn, without good cause refuses to answer any question, it will be permissible for the court or jury to draw such inferences as appear proper from his failure to give evidence or his refusal, without good cause, to answer any question.

(3) Where this subsection applies, the court or jury, in determining whether the accused is guilty of the offence charged, may draw such inferences as appear proper from the failure of the accused to give evidence or his refusal, without good cause, to answer any question.

(4) This section does not render the accused compellable to give evidence on his own behalf, and he shall accordingly not be guilty of contempt of court by reason of a failure to do so.

(5) For the purposes of this section a person who, having been sworn, refuses to answer any question shall be taken to do so without good cause unless -

- (a) he is entitled to refuse to answer the question by virtue of any Law, whenever passed or made, or on the ground of privilege; or
- (b) the court in the exercise of its general discretion excuses him from answering it.

(6) This section applies -

- (a) in relation to proceedings on indictment for an offence, only if the person charged with the offence is arraigned on or after the commencement of this section; and
- (b) in relation to proceedings in a magistrates' court, only if the time when the court begins to receive evidence in the proceedings falls after the commencement of this section.

Effect of accused's failure or refusal to account for objects, substances or marks

150. (1) Where -

- (a) a person is arrested by a police officer, and there is -
 - (i) on his person;
 - (ii) in or on his clothing or footwear;
 - (iii) otherwise in his possession; or
 - (iv) in any place in which he is at the time of his arrest, any object, substance or mark, or there is any mark on any such object;
- (b) another police officer investigating the case reasonably believes that the presence of the object, substance or mark may be attributable to the participation of the person arrested in the commission of an offence specified by the police officer;
- (c) the police officer informs the person arrested that he so believes, and requests him to account for the presence of the object, substance or mark; and
- (d) the person fails or refuses to do so,

then if, in any proceedings against the person for the offence so specified, evidence of those matters is given, subsection (2) applies.

(2) A -

- (a) court, in determining whether there is a case to answer; or
- (b) court or jury, in determining whether the accused is guilty of the offence charged,

may draw such inferences from the failure or refusal as appear proper.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) apply to the condition of clothing or footwear as they apply to a substance or mark thereon.

(4) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply unless the accused was told in ordinary language by the police officer when making the request mentioned in subsection (1)(c) what the effect of this section would be if he failed or refused to comply with the request.

(5) Where the accused was at an authorised place of detention at the time of the failure or refusal, subsections (1) and (2) do not apply if he had not been allowed an opportunity to consult an attorney-at-law prior to the request being made.

(6) This section applies in relation to officers of customs and excise as it applies in relation to police officers.

(7) This section does not preclude the drawing of any inference from a failure or refusal of the accused to account for the presence of an object, substance or mark or from the condition of clothing or footwear which could properly be drawn apart from this section.

(8) This section does not apply in relation to a failure or refusal which occurred before the commencement of this section.

151. (1) Where -

- (a) a person arrested by a police officer was found by him at a place at or about the time the offence for which he was arrested is alleged to have been committed;
- (b) that or another police officer investigating the offence reasonably believes that the presence of the person at that place and at that time may be attributable to his participation in the commission of the offence;
- (c) the police officer informs the person that he so believes, and requests him to account for that presence; and
- (d) the person fails or refuses to do so,

Effect of accused's failure or refusal to account for presence at a particular place then if, in any proceedings against the person for the offence, evidence of those matters is given, subsection (2) applies.

(2) A -

- (a) court, in determining whether there is a case to answer; and
- (b) court or jury, in determining whether the accused is guilty of the offence charged,

may draw such inferences from the failure or refusal as appear proper.

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply unless the accused was told in ordinary language by the police officer when making the request mentioned in subsection (1)(c) what the effect of this section would be if he failed or refused to comply with the request.

(4) Where the accused was at an authorised place of detention at the time of the failure or refusal, subsections (1) and (2) do not apply if he had not been allowed an opportunity to consult an attorney-at-law prior to the request being made.

(5) This section applies in relation to officers of customs and excise as it applies in relation to police officers.

(6) This section does not preclude the drawing of any inference from a failure or refusal of the accused to account for his presence at a place which could properly be drawn apart from this section.

(7) This section does not apply in relation to a failure or refusal which occurred before the commencement of this section.

Interpretation of certain references in sections 148, 149, 150 and 151

152. (1) In sections 148(2), 149(3), 150(2) and 151(2), references to an offence charged include references to any other offence of which the accused could lawfully be convicted on that charge.

(2) In sections 148(3), 150(5) and 151(4) references to an authorised place of detention include a police station, prison or any other prescribed place of detention.

(3) Nothing in sections 148, 149, 150 or 151 prejudices the operation of a provision of any Law which provides, in whatever words, that any answer or evidence given by a person in specified circumstances shall not be admissible in evidence against him or some other person in any proceedings or class of proceedings.

(4) In subsection (3), the reference to giving evidence is a reference to giving evidence in any manner, whether by furnishing information, making discovery, producing documents or otherwise.

(5) Nothing in sections 148, 149, 150 or 151 prejudices any power of a court, in any proceedings, to exclude evidence, whether by preventing questions being put or otherwise, at its discretion.

(6) Where the court or jury is entitled to draw such inferences as appear proper pursuant to these provisions, the court or jury is entitled to take into account the failure to mention the fact or failure to testify as an additional evidential factor in support of the prosecution case.

Power of police officer to use reasonable force

153. Where any provision of this Law -

(a) confers a power on a police officer; and

- (b) does not provide that the power may only be exercised with the consent of some person, other than a police officer, the police officer may use reasonable force, if necessary, in the exercise of the power.

154. A person may use such force as is reasonable in the circumstances in the prevention of crime, or in effecting or in assisting in the lawful arrest of offenders or suspected offenders or of persons unlawfully at large.

Use of force in making arrest, etc.

155. The Police Law (2006 Revision) is repealed.

Repeal of Police Law (2006 Revision)

156. All appointments and things lawfully made or done under the Police Law (2006 Revision) in this section referred to as the “repealed Law” shall continue in force and shall be deemed to have been made or done under this Law and Regulations and Standing Orders made under the repealed Law, not being inconsistent with this Law, shall remain in force until replaced by Regulations and Standing Orders made under this Law.

SCHEDULE 3

(Section 46)

SPECIAL PROCEDURE FOR ACCESS

Making of orders by judge

1. If on an application made by a police officer a judge is satisfied that one or other of the sets of access conditions is fulfilled, he may make an order under paragraph 4.

2. The first set of access conditions is fulfilled if-

- (a) there are reasonable grounds for believing-
 - (i) that an indictable offence has been committed;
 - (ii) that there is material on premises specified in the application, or on premises occupied or controlled by a person specified in the application (including all such premises on which there are reasonable grounds for believing that there is such material as it is reasonably practicable so to specify);
 - (iii) that the material is likely to be of substantial value (whether by itself or together with other materials) to the investigation in connection with which the application is made; and
 - (iv) that the material is likely to be relevant evidence;
- (b) other methods of obtaining the material-
 - (i) have been tried without success; or
 - (ii) have not been tried because it appeared that they were bound to fail; and
- (c) it is in the public interest, having regard-
 - (i) to the benefit likely to accrue to the investigation if the material is obtained; and
 - (ii) to the circumstances under which the person in possession of the material holds it, that the material should be produced or that access to it should be given.

3. The second set of access conditions is fulfilled if-

- (a) there are reasonable grounds for believing that there is material on premises occupied or controlled by a person specified in the application (including all such premises on which there are reasonable grounds for believing that there is such material as it is reasonably practicable so to specify);

- (b) but for section 46(2) a search of such premises for that material could have been authorised by the issue of a warrant to a police officer under any law other than this Schedule; and
- (c) the issue of such a warrant would have been appropriate.

4. An order under this paragraph is an order that the person who appears to the judge to be in possession of the material to which the application relates shall-

- (a) produce it to a police officer for him to take away; or
- (b) give a police officer access to it, not later than the end of the period of seven days from the date of the order or the end of such longer period as the order may specify.

5. Where the material consists of information stored in any electronic form-

- (a) an order under paragraph 4(a) shall have effect as an order to produce the material in a form in which it can be taken away and in which it is visible and legible, or from which it can readily be produced in a visible and legible form; and
- (b) an order under paragraph 4(b) shall have effect as an order to give a police officer access to the material in a form in which it is visible and legible.

6. For the purposes of sections 54 and 55 material produced in pursuance of an order under paragraph 4(a) shall be treated as if it were material seized by a police officer.

Notices of applications for orders

7. An application for an order under paragraph 4 shall be made inter partes.

8. Notice of an application for such an order may be served on a person either by delivering it to him or by leaving it at his proper address or by sending it by post to him in a registered letter or by the recorded delivery service.

9. Where a notice under paragraph 8 is to be served on a body corporate or partnership, it shall be served-

- (a) on a body corporate, by serving it on the body's secretary or clerk or other similar officer; or
- (b) on a partnership, by serving it on one of the partners.

10. For the purposes of this Schedule, the proper address of a person, in the case of secretary or other similar officer of a body corporate, shall be that of the registered or principal office of that body, in the case of a partner of a firm shall be that of the principal office of the firm, and in any other case shall be the last known address of the person to be served.

11. Where notice of an application for an order under paragraph 4 has been served on a person, he shall not conceal, destroy, alter or dispose of the material to which the application relates except with the leave of a judge, or with the written permission of a police officer, until-

- (a) the application is dismissed or abandoned; or
- (b) he has complied with an order under paragraph 4 made on the application.

Issue of warrants by judge

12. If on an application made by a police officer a judge-

- (a) is satisfied-
 - (i) that either set of access conditions is fulfilled; and
 - (ii) that any of the further conditions set out in paragraph 15 is also fulfilled in relation to each set of premises specified in the application; or
- (b) is satisfied-
 - (i) that the second set of access conditions is fulfilled; and
 - (ii) that an order under paragraph 4 relating to the material has not been complied with,

he may issue a warrant authorising a police officer to enter and search the premises or, as the case may be, all premises occupied or controlled by the person referred to in paragraph 2(a)(ii) or 3(a), including such sets of premises as are specified in the application (in this Schedule referred to as an "all premises warrant").

13. The judge may not issue an all premises warrant unless he is satisfied-

- (a) that there are reasonable grounds for believing that it is necessary to search premises occupied or controlled by the person in question which are not specified in the application, as well as those which are, in order to find the material in question; and
- (b) that it is not reasonably practicable to specify all the premises which he occupies or controls which might need to be searched.

14. A police officer may seize and retain anything for which a search has been authorised under paragraph 12.

15. The further conditions mentioned in paragraph 12(a)(ii) are-

- (a) that it is not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant entry to the premises.;
- (b) that it is practicable to communicate with a person entitled to grant entry to the premises but it is not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant access to the material;

- (c) that the material contains information which is unlikely to be disclosed if a warrant is not issued; and
- (d) that service of notice of an application for an order under paragraph 4 may seriously prejudice the investigation.

16. (1) If a person fails to comply with an order under paragraph 4, a judge may deal with him as if he had committed a contempt of Court.

(2) The law relating to contempt of Court shall have effect in relation to such a failure as if it were such contempt.

Costs

17. The costs of an application under this Schedule and of anything done or to be done in pursuance of an order made under it shall be in the discretion of the judge provided that where the Crown acts reasonably and in good faith, no costs should be awarded.
